

African American Children Book Titles

Title	Author	Description
	Brad Meltzer I Am Jackie Robinson	This New York Times bestselling picture book biography series by Brad Meltzer has an inspiring message: we can all be heroes.
	Lupita Nyong'o SULWE	A stunningly illustrated book—written by Oscar-winning actress Lupita Nyong'o—about a young girl's journey with colorism, self-esteem, and learning that true beauty comes from within.
	Ellen Levine Henry's Freedom Box: A True Story From the Underground Railroad	A stirring, dramatic story of a slave who mails himself to freedom.
	Grace Byers I Am Enough	This beautiful poem should just be required reading for everyone. Our natural-haired protagonist compares herself to nature—"like the sun, I'm here to shine"—and tells readers that she—and WE—are complete and enough, as-is. Close this book feeling empowered and knowing your kids are getting the message that all humans are lovely and valuable.

	John Steptoe Mufaro's Beautiful Daughters	This classic Cinderella tale gets retold with an emphasis on generosity and kindness—and the incredible illustrations paint a picture of a world different than our own.
	HERITAGE ARTS ILLUSTRATED African American Legends for Little Learners	An introductory series to teach young learners about Black history using bright and engaging illustrations.
	Roda Ahmed Mae Among The Stars	A beautiful picture book for sharing, inspired by the life of the first African American woman to travel in space, Mae Jemison
	Margot Lee Shetterly Hidden Figures	The incredibly inspiring true story of four black women who helped NASA launch men into space.
	Monica Clark Robinson Let The Children March	This book tells the story of thousands of African American children who marched in Birmingham, Alabama for their civil rights after being inspired by the words of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

	Maria Isabel Sanchez Vegara Little People Big Dreams Harriet	This book follows the incredible life of Harriet Tubman, the Underground Railroad conductor who "never lost a single passenger."
	Anna Membrino I Look Up To... Michelle Obama	This board book distills Michelle Obama's excellent qualities into deliciously illustrated little baby-sized bites with text designed to share and read aloud.
	Parker Curry Parker Looks Up: An Extraordinary Moment	A visit to Washington, D.C.'s National Portrait Gallery forever alters Parker Curry's young life when she views First Lady Michelle Obama's portrait.
	Jonah Winter Barack	A glowing picture book biography of the 44th President of the United States, Barack Obama.
	Karen Katz The Color Of Us	Seven-year-old Lena wants to paint a picture of herself, and she wants to use brown paint for her skin. But brown comes in so many different shades, which Lena learns as she and her mother take a walk through her neighborhood.

	Vashti Harrison Exceptional Black Women in History	An illustrated board book showcasing true stories of Black women throughout history.
	Vashti Harrison Dream Big Little One	This bedtime book is sure to inspire—and every child should know they can Dream Big, regardless of the color of their skin.
	Vashti Harrison Little Legends” Exceptional Men in Black History	An illustrated board book showcasing true stories of Black men throughout history.
	Maria Isabel Sanchez Vegara Little People, Big Dreams Wilma Rudolph	New in the critically acclaimed "Little People, Big Dreams series," discover the life of Wilma Rudolph, the remarkable sprinter and Olympic champion.
	Fran Manushkin Happy in Our Skin	This book celebrates the skin—not just in its variety of colors, but also in how it serves the body, how it keeps us together. It's a lesson in the beauty and power of the skin, and teaching kids to love the skin they're in will teach them to love the skin of others, as well as give them confidence when their body makes them feel different (whether that's because of color, acne, body type, or ability level).

	Editors of Caterpillar Books The Story Of Rap	Bop along with the greats in this adorable baby book that introduces little ones to the rappers that started it all!
	Chloe Perkins Rapunzel	The Once Upon A World collection keeps classic stories but imagines them taking place in a different part of the world—Rapunzel is Indian, Cinderella is Mexican, Snow White is Japanese. Though the stories are the classic versions and not updated, the multicultural take is much-welcomed and is a good reason to update your own bookshelves.
	Robb Pearlman Pink Is For Boys	As kids are developing their views of the world, they're learning what things each gender "can" explore. This book tells kids at a young age that no matter their gender they're free to explore all kinds of activities and interests—boys can love pink, girls can love trucks, and we'll all grow into our truest selves. Bonus, this brightly illustrated book also teaches young kids about colors!
	Bobbi Kates We're Different, We're the Same	Nothing like Sesame Street to teach us the big lessons. Elmo and friends teach us that our insides—feelings, needs, desires—are the same for all of us, even if we look differently on the outside. The tag of this book rings true: "We're All Wonderful!"
	Michael Tyler The Skin You Live In	This easy nursery-rhyme feeling picture book teaches kids about all the colors skin can come in, and also the similarities between us all.